Severe charges over flight fracas

Fight on jet, fighter jet. Biggest charge for two women carries possible sentence of life in prison

Two women charged over a drunken incident on a Sunwing flight that forced the Cuba-bound airplane to return to Toronto on Wednesday evening were each granted a $2,500 bail Thursday.

Their arrest marks the third time in just over two years that the airline has needed a fighter-jet escort.

Milana Muzikante, 26, of Vaughan, and Lilia Ratmanski, 25, of Whitby, allegedly consumed a "significant quantity" of alcohol in the airplane bathroom and lit a cigarette that triggered the on-board smoke detector, said Sunwing spokeswoman Janine Champson. The two women then allegedly got into a physical altercation with each other and threatened the aircraft.

Muzikante and Ratmanski were charged with smoking on an aircraft, endangering the safety of an aircraft, mischief over $5,000, mischief endangering life and uttering threats. Endangering the safety of an aircraft, the most severe of the charges, carries a maximum sentence of life in prison.

Dressed for tropical weather and in handcuffs, Muzikante and Ratmanski appeared in a Brampton courtroom Thursday afternoon. Both women sported bright pink nail polish.

On Aug. 18, Ratmanski asked for suggestions about the trip from her Facebook friends, posting, "Somebody please recommend a good resort in Varadero I am going crazy trying to decide! 4-5 stars."

Both women are forbidden from consuming, purchasing or possessing alcohol, being on an airplane or at an airport and communicating with each other as part of the terms of their bail. Ratmanski left court Thursday afternoon; Muzikante remained in custody that evening, awaiting a signature from her surety.

There is a publication ban on evidence presented in the hearing. Torstar News Service attempted to contact Muzikante and Ratmanski but was unable to obtain comment.

Donald Bitter, who is representing both Muzikante and Ratmanski, said Ratmanski had nothing to say as he escorted the young woman to her car Thursday. Bitter said he expected Muzikante to be released "shortly."

Outside the courtroom Thursday afternoon, Ratmanski's mother, who would not give her name, said her daughter was an A student in nursing at York who "never smokes, never drinks."

"I'm so shocked," the mother said. "I don't understand what has happened."

The Sunwing flight was over South Carolina when the pilot decided to turn the plane around on Wednesday.

"Just out of an abundance of caution, the NORAD jets were launched and monitored the situation from the air," said NORAD spokesperson U.S. Army Cpt. Ruth Castro.

A pair of CF-18s from the Royal Canadian Air Force base in Bagotville, Que., met the Sunwing jet at the Canadian border. The escort lasted four minutes. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Aftermath

The Sunwing aircraft landed at Pearson around 8:30 p.m. Reports say the entire plane "erupted in cheers" when the two women were removed from the aircraft.

- The flight took off for a second time from Toronto around 11 p.m. Wednesday with a new flight crew. Sunwing said an incident like this can cost more than $50,000.

Police take down gang allegedly behind high-end car thefts

Toronto police arrested eight people and recovered at least $5 million in stolen property on Thursday as they dismantled a criminal gang allegedly involved in a number of break-ins at high-end homes across the Greater Toronto Area.

In a series of early morning raids, police said they recovered 23 stolen luxury cars, jewelry and electronics, among other accessories.

The operation — dubbed Project Yellowbird after the theft of a yellow Porsche Carrera during last December's ice storm — involved officers from several Ontario jurisdictions.

Chief Bill Blair said the successful conclusion of the operation had made a very significant dent in the ability of the gang to continue victimizing the people of Toronto.

"We've turned off a pipeline, a pipeline that was victimizing people in the city and creating a very unsafe situation" he said at a news conference.

Supt. Scott Gilbert, who is involved in the investigation, said one suspect, a 37-year-old man, was still at large.

Gilbert said the vehicles recovered Thursday included some of the biggest names in luxury autos such as Porsche, Bentley, Aston Martin, Mercedes-Benz and BMW.

Several luxury vehicles reported stolen in the past few months, however, have yet to be recovered, said Gilbert.

Dancing his cares away

Rob Ford does his best boogie in council chambers on Thursday as Jay Douglas, front, performs. Although Ford is embroiled in another controversy over his time coaching the Don Bosco high school football team, there was some good news for the mayor. The city's integrity commissioner has ruled Ford did not violate the city's code of conduct when he had his junior aides help him coach the Bosco team during business hours. The commissioner, Janet Leiper, found that Ford's young special assistants worked long and stressful days, often into the night, and joined Ford at Etobicoke practices from 3:30 to 5 p.m. to "volunteer in an activity that they thought was valuable and enjoyable."

Majority supports culling raccoons

Poll. 53% of Toronto respondents say they're OK with euthanizing critters

Raccoons now have more reason than ever to watch their furry backs: A Forum Research poll shows that a majority of Torontonians support euthanizing the nocturnal prowlers.

From a sample of 931 Toronto voters, 53 per cent support humanely euthanizing the critters as a means of population control and 27 per cent were against it. The remaining 19 per cent had no opinion.

The poll, conducted Monday, is considered accurate plus or minus three percentage points, 19 times out of 20.

"It's not a good year to be a raccoon in Toronto, and these little second-storey operators should be grateful they have a friend in Mayor (Rob) Ford, who has said he does not agree with euthanization," said Lorne Bozinoff, president of Forum Research.

Last week at city hall, Ford told reporters that he has had standoffs with raccoons.

"I've seen it with the neighbours, and sometimes you open your blue bin or black bin, they jump out — honestly, it scares you when it's pitch black," said Ford.

But Ford also said he did not support euthanizing raccoons unless they were attacking people or being too aggressive.

Harold Slater, a manager at Menagerie Pet Shop in Cabbagetown, disagrees with euthanizing raccoons and said the problem lies with the people providing the raccoons with food sources.

"If there's food available, then they're going to reproduce. If there's no food available, they're not going to reproduce," said Slater, who is more concerned about crossing paths with a skunk than a raccoon. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Support by candidate

- If raccoons could vote, they might be dismayed to learn that John Tory backers were among the most supportive of population control, with 61 per cent OK with liquidating the masked foragers.
- Voters who had planned on supporting Karen Stintz were equally as likely to support a cull, while Ford supporters came in at 53 per cent.

Poll. Make it $20 for Union-Pearson Express

A new poll suggests that $20 could be the most agreeable rate for a one-way ticket on the incoming Union-Pearson Express train.

The results come a week after Torstar News Service conducted a reader survey online that produced similar findings.

In the new phone survey conducted by Forum Research on Monday, more than 900 Torontonians over the age of 18 were asked how likely they would be to use the UP Express train at $10, $20 and $30.

Forum president Lorne Bozinoff suggests that neither the $10 or $30 ticket options would be realistic, based on the group's results.

The poll found that 41 per cent said they would be most likely to use the train if a one-way ticket cost $10. About 10 per cent said the optimal price would be $20, and just four per cent said $30 was an agreeable rate.

A Metrolinx spokesperson said the transit authority is weighing its options.

T.O. man charged in Calgary death

Calgary police have charged a Toronto man in the death of Natasha Mohamed Farah, who was fatally shot outside a nightclub over the weekend.

Hussein Ibrahim, 21, was arrested late Wednesday and charged with one count of reckless use of a firearm.

Police have determined there was more than one shooter responsible for the gunfire that erupted outside a Calgary bar early Saturday.

Calgary police Staff Sgt. Mike Cavilla said Wednesday more charges could be laid as the investigation progresses.

"Because of the fact that there was more than one shooter, it complicates the matter.

Natasha Mohamed Farah FACEBOOK

"But what I can tell you is that the investigation is ongoing and we are currently awaiting results of both forensics and ballistics at the crime lab that will assist us in determining what further evidence we have in order to lay further charges down the road," Cavilla said.

A second man arrested after the shooting remains in custody in Calgary. He was the subject of a Toronto-based Canada-wide warrant for attempted murder.

Ibrahim is scheduled to appear in a Calgary court Friday.

WELCOME ABOARD! TTC LAUNCHES NEXT-GENERATION STREETCAR ON SUNDAY

ANDY BYFORD
CEO
TORONTO TRANSIT COMMISSION

This Sunday, the TTC will reach a significant milestone in its modernization program and in its journey to become a fully accessible transit system.

At 10 a.m., the first of our 204-strong fleet of low-floor, accessible and air-conditioned streetcars will enter service at Spadina Station on the 510 Spadina line. Following a short ceremony, the new vehicle will begin its inaugural trip, heading south down Spadina Avenue to Spadina Loop at Queens Quay from where it will turn back north. A second new streetcar will also enter service on Sunday, following the first vehicle along the same route. A lot of preparation has gone onto making this event a reality. Staff from across the TTC have collaborated over many months, and years in fact, to acquire and finally prepare the new streetcar for service, to train operators and maintenance staff, to draw up operating procedures, and to design and install on- and off-board fare payment machines.

These new vehicles are fully accessible and feature a ramp to enable customers who need this feature to board with ease. This is hugely important as our current streetcar fleet is completely inaccessible to customers who use a mobility device.

With the introduction of the new streetcars on Sunday, the 510 Spadina route automatically becomes a proof-of-payment (POP) route, whether you ride the existing streetcar or the new one. This means that customers who already hold proof of payment such as a Metropass or a valid transfer, may board via any door, at any time on any streetcar (old and new) operating on the 510 route. Customers without POP must still purchase a fare and obtain a transfer. This may be done both on the new vehicles and at on-street machines that have been installed at the busiest stops along the route. There will be plenty of TTC customer service staff on-hand to help riders get used to the new streetcar and to assist you at stops along the route. These staff will help ensure that you have proof of payment and they will guide you through the operation of the new fare vending machines.

Focus will now turn to progressively converting the whole 510 route to new streetcars. On October 12, we will reinstate service through to Union Station for the 510 Spadina, as well as the 509 Harbourfront. Later this fall, the new Presto smartcard will be accepted on our new streetcars, part of the first phase of the system-wide roll-out of Presto across the TTC over the next three years.

I am very proud of the way TTC staff have worked to achieve this milestone. And I am delighted to welcome everyone to their new, state-of-the-art ride.

EMPLOYEE PROFILE

Name:	Position:	Years of Service:
Eddie Braga	Streetcar Operator	25

I have seen significant transformation at the TTC over the past 25 years. I have had the privilege of driving four generations of streetcars including the Peter Witt, PCC, CLRV and now, the modern, low-floor streetcar. When the Spadina right-of-way opened in 1998, I took a CLRV on one of the first trips on the line. On Sunday, I get to take the new streetcar for its first spin. It's amazing to be part of history.

YOUR NEW RIDE HAS ARRIVED, TORONTO! Ride it this Sunday on the 510 Spadina line

Ramp

With the launch of this new, low-floor streetcar, the TTC is becoming even more accessible. Now riders using strollers, wheelchairs and other mobility aids can enjoy barrier-free access. Push the blue button near the second set of doors to use the ramp.

Accessible

Inside the streetcar, customers will benefit from a spacious, designated space for mobility devices. To find out where the new streetcars are on the line, look for the accessible logo on the route map at nextbus.com.

POP

On Sunday, the TTC will introduce Proof of Payment (POP) to the 510 Spadina Line, allowing customers to board any door, provided they have a pass or transfer to show they've paid their fare. Customers using cash, tokens or tickets will need to obtain a POP receipt. Simply touch the red button to activate the door.

Bike Storage

Bike storage is available in the fourth module. Now, riders can rack-it-and-ride-it on buses and streetcars during non-peak hours – Monday to Friday before 6:30 a.m., between 10 a.m. and 3:30 p.m., and after 7 p.m.; weekends and statutory holidays.

Spacious

The new streetcars carry nearly twice as many customers as the old. With ergonomic seats and air conditioning, it's a more comfortable ride for everyone.

Time to geek out at Fan Expo Canada

Wonder Woman costume not included. This year's expo includes the likes of Patrick Stewart and Stan Lee, along with some pretty cool costumes

LIA GRAINGER
toronto@metronews.ca

Fan Expo Canada is a world unto itself — a surreal world inhabited by more than 120,000 adults and a smattering of children who, for four days, will giddily celebrate their adoration — nay, obsession — with comics, sci-fi, anime, cartoons, video games, horror flicks, cosplay and a variety of other pop culture media.

The fun kicked off Thursday night at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre, where eager attendees flooded the 750,000-square-foot exhibition space dressed in all manner of lovingly homemade costumes.

"We're living in a time where adults can act silly and it's cool," said Kay Pike, a cosplay (costume play) model. In a skin-tight Wonder Woman get-up, Pike seemed right at home among the many costumed wanderers.

"We're allowed to do this now," said Kay. "Lets embrace it!"

What started in 1995 as a national comic book exposition has ballooned into an overwhelmingly inclusive event broken into large zones.

In the cosplay section, attendees can buy a Thor hammer for $60, pay $20 for the autograph of a famous cosplay model, or drop $50 for a coloured wig. There's even a booth selling nothing but tiny top hats.

"I look forward to getting new gear (at Fan Expo)," exclaimed Meagan Kipp, a Kitchener native dressed as Mario from Mario Brothers. "This is the biggest geek convention around!"

Gamers are usually drawn to the intense competitions hosted by Intel Extreme Masters. Competitors come from as far afield as South Korea to compete for a $20,000 grand prize. They sit in glass booths before hundreds of observers, who watch the game on a big screen as announcers call the match for the cheering crowd.

There's tons of stuff for kids, including a massive Lego exhibit and a play area where the children can build their own creations.

Of course, Fan Expo wouldn't exist without comics, and they are on epic display, with row after row of new art and collector items for sale. Artists are also in attendance. Ever wanted to have your portrait done by iconic Archie artist Dan Parent? He'll do that — for a price.

Star-filled weekend

Celebrity appearances are a huge draw at Fan Expo, and the weekend's lineup is packed with classics like Star Trek: The Next Generation alumni Patrick Stewart, Marvel legend Stan Lee, Lord of the Rings star Elijah Wood, old school Batman Adam West and wrestler Hulk Hogan.

City pulls popular litterbug ads after firms complain

Good news for urban litterbugs: You can return to dropping your garbage on the street without being stylishly berated by the City of Toronto.

After rolling out a slick ad campaign that used brand-name packages to spell out epithets like "Pig" and "Lowlife," accompanied by the tagline "Littering says a lot about you," the city has pulled the images because some companies complained that their trademarks were being violated.

The series began in mid-August and immediately earned praise online. In one poster, a crumpled du Maurier cigarette package sits next to a crushed Red Bull can; the only visible letters spell "Dumb."

The images appeared in print publications, transit shelters and the exterior of TTC vehicles.

But the city did not consult with any of the companies before using their products in the ads and some subsequently objected, said city spokesperson Siobhan Ramsay.

"It was around the trademarks, and they thought the campaign could have a potentially negative effect on the brands," she said. "All of the images have now been pulled."

A City of Toronto anti-littering ad. IMGUR

Ramsay declined to say which companies protested. Among the brands depicted were Reese's Pieces and Gatorade ("Pig"), Fun Dip and Drumstick ("Dipstick"), Sweet'N Low and Life Savers ("Lowlife"), and Lay's and Krazy Glue ("Lazy").

The advertising agency Publicis Canada was behind the campaign. It is not yet clear how much the city spent, since the agency has not submitted their invoices, Ramsay said.

Publicis declined to comment. "The city has very stringent guidelines which prohibit us from commenting on any matter," said company vice-president Brett McIntosh.

Celina Fenster, a Thornhill-based intellectual property lawyer, said the ads do seem to violate trademark protections.

She added that the half-disguised nature of the brands' appearance did not change the legal calculus.

"If it's still recognizable to the general public, then it has an effect on the goodwill and reputation of the owner."

Dozens injured after tour bus rolls on highway

Dozens of people were injured, six of them critically, after a tour bus rolled over on a mountain highway in British Columbia, police said Thursday afternoon.

RCMP Sgt. Norm Flemming said 15 of the 56 passengers were seriously injured when the southbound bus crashed at about 3 p.m. Thursday on the Coquihalla Highway, about 30 kilometres south of Merritt.

Flemming said everyone aboard the bus was injured to some degree, suffering from bumps, bruises and cuts requiring stitches. He said there were no known fatalities.

"The cause of the accident is right now under investigation," Flemming said. "I just don't have enough information to hazard a guess."

Charlottetown. 100 young Canadians meet to shape vision for nation's future

In 1864, three years before Confederation, Canada's soon-to-be founding fathers gathered at the Charlottetown Conference on Prince Edward Island. The ideas they discussed there laid the groundwork for what Canada is now.

This Sunday, 150 years later, the New Canada Conference will ask, "What's next?"

Created by PEI 2014 and based in Charlottetown, the four-day event brings together delegates aged 19 to 24 from across Canada to create a vision of what Canada could become.

"We wanted to host an event that would really create dialogue and offer an opportunity to examine Canada's future, and really also define the public agenda for the next 50 years," said Penny Walsh McGuire, executive director with PEI 2014.

"When we reflected on the 1864 Charlottetown Conference, there were a lot of voices not represented at the table among the 23 leaders," she said. Those missing voices included First Nations, women, the Acadian community and youth.

More than 800 potential delegates from every province and territory applied to attend the conference. One hundred were chosen. "We know we have an amazing delegation coming here," said Walsh McGuire. "When we look at Canada's future … among these delegates will be the leaders."

Each delegate will specialize in one of eight concentrations, including learning and social development; justice and equity; and environment and economy. An expert facilitator will lead discussions and brainstorming around each topic.

On Day 3, delegates will present their ideas and add them to the conference Ideabook, a document that will summarize the key findings and recommendations. Walsh McGuire called the Ideabook "a gift for Canada's future."

"It's not a conclusion, but a start to something important," she said.

Ukraine claims Russia sending tanks and troops

Satellite photos. NATO says at least 1,000 Russian troops are inside the country

Ukraine accused Russia on Thursday of entering its territory with tanks, artillery and troops, and Western powers said Moscow had "outright lied" about its role and dangerously escalated the conflict.

Russia dismissed the allegations, describing the fighters there as "Russian volunteers." The Kremlin has repeatedly denied arming and supporting the separatists who have been fighting Ukrainian troops for four months in the gravest crisis between Russia and the West since the end of the Cold War.

NATO said at least 1,000 Russian troops are in Ukraine and later released what it said were satellite photos of Russian self-propelled artillery units moving last week.

Two columns of tanks and other equipment entered southeastern Ukraine at midday, following heavy shelling of the area from Russia that forced overmatched Ukrainian border guards to flee, said Col. Andriy Lysenko, a spokesman for Ukraine's national security council.

"Russian forces have entered Ukraine," President Petro Poroshenko said in Kyiv, cancelling a foreign trip and calling an emergency meeting of his security council.

He urged Ukrainians to remain calm.

"Destabilization of the situation and panic, this is as much of a weapon of the enemy as tanks," Poroshenko told the council.

U.S. President Barack Obama spoke with German Chancellor Angela Merkel, and both leaders agreed Russia must face consequences for its actions.

U.S. stands with NATO

- President Barack Obama is ruling out the possibility that the U.S. will take military action to address growing violence in Ukraine. But Obama is pointing to the NATO alliance as a deterrent for Russia.
- Canadian fighter jets will be patrolling the edge of Russian airspace next week as part of NATO's response to the unravelling situation in Ukraine. Four CF-18s have arrived in Lithuania.

Marital cheat site sues S.Korea for shutting it down

A Canadian dating website for married people seeking affairs is suing the government of South Korea after being blocked in that country over what it says are false allegations of illegal activity.

Ashley Madison's Korean site was shut down this spring shortly after its launch, with authorities there alleging it incited immorality, according to media reports at the time. Adultery is illegal in South Korea. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ebola could sicken 20,000, WHO says

The Ebola outbreak in West Africa is accelerating and could grow six times larger to infect as many as 20,000 people, the World Health Organization said Thursday.

The UN health agency unveiled a new road map for containing the virus, and scientists are fast-tracking efforts to find a treatment or vaccine. Ebola has menaced Africa for 40 years, but previously struck in remote villages and was contained fairly quickly.

Goodell talks penalties for domestic violence

Acknowledging he "didn't get it right" with a two-game suspension for Ravens running back Ray Rice, NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell announced tougher penalties for players accused of domestic violence, including six weeks for a first offence and at least a year for a second.

Goodell sent a memo about the unacceptability of domestic violence to all 32 team owners Thursday, telling them to post it in locker rooms. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE FUTURE IS HERE

THE NEW STREETCAR IS COMING TO SPADINA ON AUGUST 31ST

The new streetcars on Spadina are more accessible, more comfortable, more convenient to board, more spacious and carry twice as many passengers. The 510 Spadina will now run on a Proof-of-Payment (POP) system. Customers will need to show their POP receipt to a TTC fare inspector upon request.

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW:

PASS HOLDERS:
Customers with a Metropass, Day Pass or Weekly Pass will be able to board the new streetcar through any door. Your Pass is your POP receipt.

TOKENS:
Customers using tokens will need to pay at an on-board or curbside fare vending machine to receive a POP receipt. Your POP receipt can also be used as your transfer.

TTC TICKET HOLDERS:
Customers using Senior/Student or Child tickets are required to have their tickets stamped at a ticket validator located beside the on-board or curbside fare vending machines. Your stamped ticket is your POP receipt and can be used as your transfer.

TRANSFER HOLDERS:
Customers with a transfer can board the streetcar through any door. Your transfer is your POP receipt.

CASH FARES:
The fare vending machines accept coins only (change is not provided), and will issue a POP receipt. Your POP receipt can be used as your transfer.

CURBSIDE FARE VENDING MACHINES:
Customers can also purchase fares and validate their tickets at new curbside fare vending machines installed at the busiest stops along the route, such as College and Spadina. Fare vending machines accept coins only (change is not provided).

The new fare vending machines and ticket validators are unique to the 510 Spadina route. There will be a transition period when both new and regular streetcars will run on the 510 Spadina route. Customers boarding regular streetcars will pay their fare as usual and will now be required to show a POP receipt upon request.

The man behind Tim Hortons

'Ghost in the corporate machine'. Metro looks at the relationship between the tragic Stanley Cup champion and Canada's iconic brand

JESSICA SMITH CROSS
jessica.smithcross@metronews.ca

The hockey player's name is perhaps said more often than any other in Canada — no, it's not Wayne Gretzky.

In all of the talk of what Burger King Worldwide Inc.'s acquisition of Tim Hortons means for Canada's iconic brand, there's little mention of Tim Horton, the man — a Stanley Cup-winning defenceman for the 1950s and '60s Maple Leafs, who died driving drunk near St. Catharines, Ont., in 1974.

"Horton is a ghost in the corporate machine," said Douglas Hunter, author of a book on Miles Gilbert (Tim) Horton and one on Tim Hortons. "He has pretty much disappeared from the store that bears his name."

Fact or Farce?

Tim Horton-less Tim Hortons became synonymous with Canadian identity in part of because of the CBC show Royal Canadian Air Farce, said author Douglas Hunter.

- The bit. "It was this group of idiot-savant Canadians who'd gather around the table and in their own kind of dopey way comment on the issues of the day, cementing this idea that doughnut shops are where Canadians gather together and thrash out what it means to be Canadian."
- Sipping votes. Politicians picked up on the association with regular Canadians, which has turned Tim Hortons into a favoured spot for photo ops.

Prior to his death, the coffee chain had begun to "disengage" Horton from the restaurant, said Hunter, as Horton wasn't comfortable as a "persona" and the company wanted to focus on its food. The phasing out of Horton continued after the circumstances surrounding Horton's death mired the chain's founder in controversy.

On Feb. 21, 1974, Horton, who then played for the Buffalo Sabres, was heading to Buffalo for treatment after taking a puck to the jaw and stopped to meet his partner, Ron Joyce, in the doughnut shop chain, said Hunter. At 4 a.m. Horton went off the road at high speed. Alcohol and pills were found at the scene, but at the time whether or not he was driving drunk was publicly disputed and unconfirmed. (In 2005, the Ottawa Citizen obtained a copy of Horton's autopsy confirming Horton's blood alcohol was twice the legal limit, and traces of Dexamyl, a prescription drug, had been found in his system.)

"At the time he died there were about 50 restaurants open or in development (in Ontario), and they had just signed the first deal in Atlantic Canada," said Hunter. Tim Hortons continued to grow without Horton.

Then, in the late '80s, Lori Horton, Tim's widow, sued Joyce, seeking to reverse her decision to sell her inherited share of Tim Hortons to him for $1 million and a Cadillac Eldorado, saying she wasn't of sound mind due to substance use.

"As part of her arguments a lot of dirty laundry — as Tim's friends put it — came out. She said, 'I'm not that bad person in this relationship, he had a drinking problem, he was angry, he was violent, and he threatened me,'" said Hunter. "There was a lot of airing of stuff that ... was, on a very basic level for Tim Hortons the brand, a problem."

By the time Lori Horton lost her case in '93, there were about 700 Tim's restaurants.

According to Hunter, the reason Tim Hortons continues to expand, with little acknowledgement of its founder is, in part, because Horton became "toxic" to the brand.

But Horton wasn't entirely erased. In fact, when his portrait was used as part of a "Tim Horton the Legend" promotion for the Tim Hortons children's camps, Lori Horton sued the company arguing she had copyright of the photo.

"It was a spiteful suit after she lost the initial suit over the sale," said Hunter. He said the company decided to take the posters down.

Although Horton is not often mentioned in Canada, Hunter said some of Tim Hortons' marketing in the U.S. has included Tim Horton as a hockey player on American teams — neglecting his nearly two decades and four Stanley Cup wins with the Maple Leafs — to emphasize the company's American connections.

A&F's teen store blues

Abercrombie & Fitch. Ohio-based retailer reports revenue fell 5.8 per cent to $890.6M

The Abercrombie & Fitch logo has lost the power it once wielded.

Shares of Abercrombie & Fitch Co. tumbled Thursday after reporting weak sales as more teens shop elsewhere.

The company is trying to stock trendier clothing — and it turns out that means stripping off the once-prized Abercrombie logo.

The New Albany, Ohio-based retailer reported that revenue fell 5.8 per cent to $890.6 million, short of analyst estimates.

Revenue at stores open at least a year dropped a steep 11 per cent, including eight per cent at U.S. stores. The company's earnings per share beat estimates.

A&F and other traditional teen stores are facing an uphill battle to turn their businesses around as mall traffic drops and shoppers' tastes change.

The doughnut that outduelled the rest

Out of over 76,000 entries, Jennifer Brown's creme brulee-filled doughnut topped with peanut butter cups has taken home top prize in the Tim Hortons Duelling Doughnuts contest.

Brown, from Glencoe, Ont., battled it out with three other finalists in an online vote, winning $10,000 in prize money and the chance to see her creation sold in Tim Hortons across Canada. The finalists were chosen by 90210 star Jason Priestley, Ben Mulroney, musician Jann Arden and celebrity chef Anna Olson. THE CANADIAN PRESS

WHEN TOMATOES & TIMBITS WERE KING

Welcome to the final Metro List of the silly season (after Labour Day, everyone's back at work and the real news starts up again). In honour of its passing, we begin with:

THE METRO LIST

Paul Sullivan
metronews.ca

1 La Tomatina. Every year since 1945, the good citizens of Buñol in Valencia, Spain, have set aside the last Wednesday in August to throw tomatoes at each other. More than 150,000 tomatoes — approximately 40 tonnes — are sacrificed during the hour-long purée melée. Tomatoes are pre-crushed, so no one is actually hurt. And they grow tomatoes specifically for the event. Silly, yes. Sloppy, yes. Shoddy, no.

2 Would you like fries with those Timbits? Our Canadian identity was seriously shaken this week as Burger King, home of the Whopper, bought Tim Hortons, home of the double-double, for more than $12 billion. No one's quite sure what it means for our national café, but at least they'll never run out of ketchup: 3G, the company that owns Burger King, also recently partnered with Warren Buffett to purchase Heinz and all its 57 varieties.

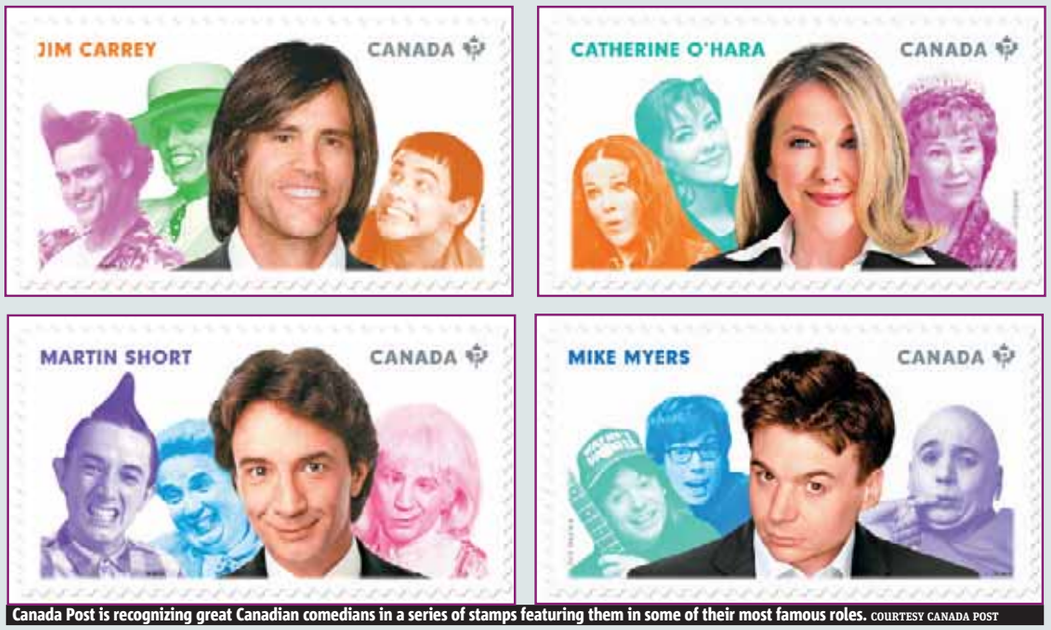
3 Guess who's making a profit? Canada Post, that's who! In the most unlikely resurrection since Lazarus, Canada Post turned a second-quarter loss of $104 million in 2013 to a profit of $53 million in 2014. Of course, the 35 per cent increase in the price of a stamp, imposed on April Fool's Day, had something to do with it. And more than a million people are scheduled to lose home delivery over the next year. (Mail Nazi: No home delivery for you!) But the last time Canada Post made a profit was 2010, so our postal privations are paying off.

4 Last lesson in Arizona. A shooting instructor in Dolan Springs, Ariz., gave an Uzi machine gun to a nine-year-old girl, told her to fire off a round, which she did, and then instructed her to go "full auto." What could possibly go wrong? Everything, it turned out. The little girl was unable to control the weapon's recoil and the instructor was cut down dead in a hail of bullets. Apart from trauma that will last a lifetime, the girl was unharmed. When will they ever learn?

5 In this guy's case, maybe never. Stop me if you've heard this before: Justin Bieber was driving his red Ferrari on the streets of Los Angeles.... This time, angered because he was being followed by the paparazzi, he slammed on his brakes and the hapless photographer smashed into him. Apparently suffering a soft tissue injury, Bieber tweeted: "We should have learned from the death of Princess Diana…" Well, Justin, you should learn something. Anything.

6 And in other news. The United Nations' Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change final draft report says global warming is here, it's already dangerous and it could be irreversible. Guess the silly season really is over.

Comedy: A part of our heritage



Canada Post is recognizing great Canadian comedians in a series of stamps featuring them in some of their most famous roles. COURTESY CANADA POST

Party on, Canada Post! Five Canadian comics coming to a parcel near (or far) from you

Five of our funniest have got the stamp of approval from Canada Post.

The Crown corporation is featuring the likes of Jim Carrey, Catherine O'Hara, Martin Short, Mike Myers and Oliver Guimond in its latest issue. The stamps show the actors in some of their most iconic roles. METRO

Selection process

According to the Canada Post website, all citizens are encouraged to offer their input into stamp-subject selection, although the choice is shaped by the Stamp Advisory Committee and is ultimately approved by a board of directors.

- They ask that you propose a subject at least two years before the desired issue date.
- Designers are chosen for "demonstrated skill in graphic arts and miniaturization."

The iTunes Festival

iTunes Festival is a highlight of the musical year -- and Metro wants to take you there. If going to jolly old London to party the way music superstars like Beck, Pharrell, Elbow and Lenny Kravitz do - sounds like a dream, Metro wants to make that dream come true.

Thirty days of wicked fun kickoff on Sept. 1, with more than 60 artists playing live at the renowned Roundhouse in London. The Roundhouse opened in 1846 with very different beginnings as a steam engine repair centre. Over the years, it took different paths; eventually becoming what is now a legendary performance hall hosting the likes of Pink Floyd, Led Zeppelin and Jimi Hendrix.

Since the iTunes Festival launched in 2007, it has carried on the tradition of stellar performances, bringing in mega stars like Adele, Katy Perry, Elton John, Coldplay and the Foo Fighters. Aside from the artists already mentioned, this year's lineup runs the gamut from BECK to David Gray, Maroon 5 to Pharrell Willams - something for all musical passions.

Experience it live with the world

Watch performances in real-time with the rest of the world by streaming them in HD every day in September at 4 p.m. ET/1 p.m. PT. You can watch on your computer, through iTunes on your iPhone, iPad or iPod touch or watch on the big screen through Apple TV. For a limited time after the gig, performances will be available on iTunes on-demand.
Check it all out at iTunes.com/Festival

Experience the festival with people around the world by following #iTunesFestival on Twitter.

The only way to get access to the event is to win tickets. And Metro has them!
Check out the back page for details on how to enter for a chance to win. Throughout the month, Metro will have updates and reminders on performances. Keep reading for the latest news.

The Lineup

Performances air at 4 p.m. ET/1 p.m. PT on iTunes at iTunes.com/Festival. Miss the show? No worries, watch it on demand for a limited time after.

Once known primarily through his '90s anti-anthem, Loser, Beck Hansen has evolved from scruffy sonic collagist to funk-and-soul revivalist to one of popular music's most esteemed and vital singer/songwriters. After a six-year break between solo releases, this year marked the arrival of one of his finest moments, Morning Phase. The glittering, expertly crafted folk opus is—as Beck has been from the very beginning—singularly hypnotic.

A visionary R&B/pop/soul renaissance man and studio innovator, Pharrell Williams lent his magic touch and sugared falsetto to two of last year's defining singles—Robin Thicke's Blurred Lines and Daft Punk's retro-futurist delight Get Lucky. But in 2014, Williams' titanic G I R L further established him as a disarming solo artist, offering the insanely catchy, Oscar®-nominated neo-soul centerpiece, Happy.

Led by Debbie Harry's insouciant wail, Blondie bridged the gap between the artfully trashy punk and new wave of mid-'70s New York and mainstream disco. They stormed charts on both sides of the Atlantic with an eclectic array of songs, including the shoutalong chorus of Call Me, the seductive coo (and visionary rap) of Rapture, and the reggae lilt of The Tide Is High.

As the voice of the Pretenders, Chrissie Hynde has been a colossal presence in rock 'n' roll since the early '80s. Hynde's intelligent songcraft brought the nervy angles of new wave and raw aggression of punk into the pop mainstream with elegant melodies that, decades later, are still hallmarks of her work.

Guitar hero, wild child, pop idol - Lenny Kravitz became one of the most distinctive personalities in music through his radiant fusion of psychedelic rock, funk, and soul. After releasing 1989's brilliant Let Love Rule, singles like Are you Gonna Go My Way and Fly Away made the singer/songwriter/multi-instrumentalist one of the most popular and critically accalimed musicians of the late '90s. Kravitz's tenth studio album, Strut, continues his reign as a visceral force in rock 'n' roll.

Through a series of vivid transformations—coquettish starlet, electro-dance diva, pop provocateur—Kylie has become one of pop music's most enduring figures. She scored her breakthrough with a sparkling cover of Little Eva's The Loco-Motion in the late '80s. Since then, the Australian-born singer has issued a series of platinum releases, become a stalwart presence on the charts, and picked up ARIAs, BRITs, and GRAMMY®s.

Say sayonara to summer!

Reel Guys

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Dawn of the Planet of the Apes is one of summer's top sci-fi flicks. CONTRIBUTED

Synopsis

If you're like the Reel Guys you don't see the long weekend as the last chance to head up to the cottage for a final blast of summer, but more of a three-day sprint to catch up on all the movies you missed over the past three months while you were busy jumping off docks, BBQing or basking in the wondrousness of warm weather. With this list the Reel Guys say sayonara to the silly season and serve up one last refreshing sip of the summer's best air-conditioner movies we took in while the rest of you were slathering on SPF 110.

Long weekend catch-up. The Reel Guys offer their suggestions for the flicks you probably missed when you were at the cottage

Richard: Mark, the summer's biggest hit, Guardians of the Galaxy, is a lot of fun and deserves all the attention it's getting, but for me the two best sci-fi films of the season were Dawn of the Planet of the Apes and Snowpiercer. Apes is a smart movie about race, gun usage and xenophobia that doesn't shy away from big ideas, while Snowpiercer is an unapologetically weird environmental thriller about a revolution on a train. For me it's the nerviest actioner to come along in a season crowded with movies that go crash, boom, bang. What grabbed you this summer?

Mark: Richard, I usually cringe at the beginning of the summer expecting nothing but comic book adaptations and sequels. But this summer those kinds of films turned out to be among the best. The three you mentioned were excellent, but I'd also like to add X-Men: Days of Future Past and Captain America: The Winter Soldier, both of which were smart, exciting, and had time travel motifs. Heck, even the latest instalment of Transformers was a major step forward: I didn't run screaming for the exit. But here are two smaller films that I thoroughly enjoyed: Begin Again, about a burned-out music producer trying to reinvent himself in hipster New York, and Chef, the story of a burned-out gourmet cook who is fired and is forced to start over with his own broken-down food truck. Hey, notice a theme here?

RC: Then there was the story of the burned-out comic. Obvious Child came to theatres with a reputation. In its film festival run, it got labelled "the abortion romcom." While that shorthand description is technically accurate, it's also reductive, ignoring the film's well-crafted and hilarious coming-of-age story about accepting responsibility to concentrate on the more sensational aspect of the story. I know you weren't a fan, but I liked it and thought Jenny Slate was terrific in the lead role.

MB: Didn't work for me, but I did like the James Brown biopic Get On Up. The movie lurches around trying to find its groove but Chadwick Bozeman deserves an Oscar nomination for his total immersion in the role. 22 Jump Street was a pleasant surprise. I didn't care for 21, but this one had a sharper, funnier script and more evolved performances from Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum. And I mostly liked Zach Braff's unofficial sequel to Garden State, Wish I Was Here. The kickstarter funded indie had too much going on to succeed but there were some great sequences that a lot of critics seemed to miss.

RC: I started off talking about Guardians, which, deservedly so, has become the biggest hit of the summer. But another movie gave it a run for its money in the entertainment department, but not in the money department. Edge of Tomorrow may sound like the title of a soap opera, but it's actually the name of a Tom Cruise alien invasion flick. In it, Cruise battles nasty space bugs called Mimics but the story is more Groundhog Day than it is War of the Worlds. The first two reels are packed with energy and invention. It's only when the conventions that made the story enticing are put aside in the last reel that the movie becomes a standard Cruise action flick. But it's still a good Cruise action flick and deserved a bigger audience.

MB: I know I'm going to like Boyhood. Haven't seen it yet because I've been too busy raising an actual boy.

Atom Egoyan. Filmmaker found inspiration in true child abduction cases

Writing the screenplay for his new film was a tough experience for Atom Egoyan.

The Captive, starring Ryan Reynolds, is a fictional story about child abduction in the Niagara region but it has roots in reality.

Missing child posters in Egoyan's hometown of Victoria, B.C., haunted his dreams, giving him a heightened awareness of "this person who created this huge hole in another group of people's lives."

Those images, coupled with news of a pedophile ring in Cornwall, Ont., inspired the hard-hitting story of the mysterious disappearance of Cass (Alexia Fast), taken from the backseat of her father's (Ryan Reynolds) truck as he picked up food at a diner.

Held hostage by a pedophile (Kevin Durand), the girl is locked in a hidden apartment where she plays piano and watches streaming video of her mother (Mireille Enos) at work as a hotel maid.

"When the results of (the Cornwall case investigation) were announced, I just found it so troubling," he says. "I started writing this script in 2009 and put it aside for a while because it just felt too dark and then I began to think about it as three couples: a couple who are trying to understand what happened to their daughter; one couple who we aren't sure should be together — the detectives (Scott Speedman and Rosario Dawson) who form a relationship over the course of the case; and then this other couple who you know should not be together — the pedophile who steals a child and holds her captive for eight years.

"When I began to see these three couples and examine the relationships, it began to find a form."

The next hurdle was finding a star. The Oscar-nominated director, known for highbrow films like The Sweet Hereafter and Exotica, found his leading man Reynolds at the movies.

"If I was to be honest," he says, "I'd say the reason I was inspired to work with him was Safe House. There were elements in that film that were exciting to me."

Reynolds says he's always wanted to work with Egoyan, saying, "growing up as a Canadian kid who loved movies, you've got to understand that Atom Egoyan was a kind of Holy Grail to me."

"That's very sweet," Egoyan says. "God, I'm not that much older than him. But I guess I am. I don't think he saw Next of Kin and Family Viewing or Speaking Parts. He must be talking about starting with Exotica. I found that touching, but I found his commitment and his desire to be in the film is what really brought the whole film together."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Brad and Angie wed at last, with entire clan playing a role

NED EHRBAR
Metro in Hollywood

Well, everybody, it finally happened.

Brad Pitt and Angelina Jolie went and got themselves hitched — according to noted scandal sheet the Associated Press — and they did it at their chateau in the South of France.

Kudos to whichever tabloid reported at some point over the past nine years that they'd be getting married in France.

Of course, there have been reports that they'd be getting married pretty much everywhere on Earth (and possibly in space) so someone had to be right at some point.

According to the Associated Press, Pitt and Jolie put a lot of work into making sure all of the Jolie-Pitt clan could take part.

Elder sons Maddox and Pax walked Jolie down the aisle, Zahara and Vivienne served as flower girls, and Shiloh and Knox were ring-bearers.

Local orphans looking to get in on the action showed up and tried to usher, hoping to land a more permanent position in the family, but were sadly turned away.

Hanks, Wilson mortified by 'out-of-control' son

Tom Hanks

Well, this is embarrassing. Tom Hanks and wife Rita Wilson are reportedly mortified over the online antics of their 24-year-old son, Chester, and his rapper persona Chet Haze, according to Radar Online.

"Chet's out of control on the Internet, and it's a huge embarrassment to Tom and Rita," a source says. "He talks tough street talk and raps about skipping classes to smoke pot. But behind his back people are laughing because they know he was raised in Brentwood with mega-wealthy parents."

Chet, who reportedly doesn't have a steady job and still lives at home, recently posted an inflammatory video in which he berates women for getting "naked on Instagram" and "f—ing around," before blurting out, "I'm already drunk."

George Clooney ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Clooney wedding mired in a pre-nup standoff and fears of Jolie-Aniston clash

In less joyful matrimony news, Pitt pal George Clooney is reportedly having a heck of a tough time planning his own wedding with fiancée Amal Alamuddin.

Among the chief sticking points, according to the National Enquirer? Worries over the guest list, a standoff on the pre-nup and their wedding planner just up and quitting.

About that guest list: Apparently the unholy trinity of Brad Pitt, Angelina Jolie and Jennifer Aniston is causing headaches once again.

Pitt was planning to attend solo, and Aniston has reportedly said she's coming, but now so is Jolie. "At first she was on the fence about going," a source says of Jolie. "But she quickly changed her mind after George told her that President Obama RSVPd yes.

"George is extremely concerned that by inviting both these women, they'll undoubtedly try to upstage each other and, in doing so, take the spotlight off the bride."

Grilled Vegetable and Garlic Salad. Skip the store-bought dressing and make your own in no time

RICARDO COOKS
Chef Ricardo
Ricardo Magazine

When it comes to grilling, meat is a no-brainer.

But I'm challenging you to think outside the box and throw a few vegetables on the barbecue, too.

Start small with a simple salad and then, start experimenting with others.

Dressing

1. On a work surface, chop the garlic with the pepper flakes. In a bowl, combine all the ingredients with a whisk. Season with salt and pepper.

Salad

1. Preheat the grill, setting the burners to high. Oil the grate.

2. Place the vegetables, except for the tomatoes, on a large baking sheet and brush with the oil. Season with salt and pepper. Grill the mushrooms in a grill wok or threaded on wooden skewers. Grill the vegetables until tender. Cut the cooked zucchini into thick slices. Place the grilled vegetables and tomatoes in a large serving platter and drizzle with the dressing.

Ingredients

Dressing
- 1 small clove garlic, finely chopped
- 1 pinch crushed red pepper flakes
- 1 tsp (5 ml) Dijon mustard
- 1 tsp (5 ml) sugar
- 3 tbsp (45 ml) white wine vinegar
- 1/4 cup (60 ml) olive oil
- Sea salt
- Pepper

Salad
- 1 lb (454 g) small asparagus, trimmed
- 2 zucchini, cut in half lengthwise
- 2 bell peppers, cut into wedges
- 4 whole green onions
- 8 oz (227 g) white mushrooms, halved
- 2 tbsp (30 ml) olive oil
- 2 cups (500 ml) cherry tomatoes, halved

Big-boned Napa love

LIQUID ASSETS

California winemakers were shaken early this week when a magnitude-6.0 earthquake rocked the state's premier vineyards in the Napa Valley.

While there was thankfully no loss of life, tweeted images of destroyed bottles and barrels had wine lovers reaching for Kleenex while vineyard employees scrambled for cheesecloth.

Though no time is a good time for a natural disaster, this hit to the Cali wine industry arrives as the popularity of Golden State juice is on the upswing. The last thing winemakers needed was an event that might put a cork in that momentum.

Long considered the Bordeaux of the New World, Napa's famous for its big-boned wines made with cabernet sauvignon and chardonnay. Louis M. Martini is one of the region's oldest producers. Owned by E. & J. Gallo, its wines are a Napa benchmark.

The 2010 Louis M. Martini Napa Valley Cabernet Sauvignon ($29.99 - $39.99) is a meaty mix of cherry, blackberry, cedar and chocolate. Cellar-worthy, it's a perfect mate for your favourite cut of steak. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Fan Expo

Date: Aug. 28-31
Location: Metro Toronto Convention Centre

Let the cosplay begin. Toronto's largest comic-con will connect more than 150,000 fans with everything they ever wished was real (but isn't). We're pretty sure this is the only place you'll find Frodo sitting alongside two Star Trek captains, the cast of The Walking Dead, and many more sci-fi and fantasy celebs. Now in its 20th year, Fan Expo 2014 promises to be the best yet.

Open Streets TO

Date: Aug. 31
Location: Bloor and Yonge

We like to think of it as Rob Ford's nightmare. Open Streets TO closes off five kilometres of Bloor (Spadina to Parliament) and Yonge (Bloor to Queen) to allow pedestrians to use the streets as "paved parks." There'll be walking, biking, jogging, yoga, and a variety of other activities all centred around the idea of improving the "mental, physical, and emotional health" of all Torontonians.

Electric Island

Date: Sept. 1
Location: Centre Island

What better way to spend your Labour Day than on the island "helping" the Electric Island grand finale be the biggest party in the city? If you're in town this long weekend, you shouldn't be. Head over to Centre Island to get your fill of outdoor fun complete with live DJs, drinks, and a few thousand like-minded partiers. There's no better way to say goodbye to summer than by dancing your way into September.

Vegetarian Food Festival

Date: Sept. 5-7
Location: Harbourfront Centre

If you're looking for meat, this is not the place for you. If, however, you are either a vegan or vegetarian (or just appreciate good food), this might just be your dream world. One of the largest events of its kind in North America, this festival will offer a wide range of the world's best veggie cuisine. Not only that but workshops, fitness classes, and other events will round out the meatless weekend.

TIFF

Date: Sept. 4-14
Location: Various

Do we really need to explain this one? TIFF is now, arguably, the most important stop on the worldwide film festival tour. Whether you're into seeing the next crop of Oscar contenders before anyone else, or you just like the idea of running into some A-list actors on your street, TIFF is going to take over Toronto for a full 10 days. Get excited.

Lorde

Date: Sept. 12
Location: Echo Beach

Yes, this is a full two weeks away, but if you want to see one of the most exciting pop stars in the world perform on the beach, you should probably start buying your tickets now. The fact that Lorde isn't even old enough to buy a drink at her own event is both enviable and awe-inspiring. We don't know what you were doing at 17, but we're pretty sure it wasn't selling out concerts.

A Yankee, sure, but everyone loves him

Farewell tour. Retiring at 40, Derek Jeter plays the Jays at the Rogers Centre one last time

Jays closer Casey Janssen has had the better of Derek Jeter 16 times out of their 17 head-to-head encounters.

But ask Janssen about the New York Yankees captain and, after a string of compliments, he goes straight to the one time Jeter got the best of him.

"He hit a home run off me and I blew a save because of it," Janssen recalled with a grimace.

Even when someone has his number, Jeter — who has hit .059 against Janssen — leaves an impression.

Toronto fans will get one last look at the 40-year-old shortstop when Jeter's farewell tour rolls into the Rogers Centre on Friday.

"His career speaks for himself but he's one of those guys who seemed to do everything right," said Jays manager John Gibbons.

Like other clubs, the Jays will be showing their appreciation for the future Hall of Famer with a gift.

The Detroit Tigers presented him with two seats from the original Tiger Stadium and three framed paintings. Cleveland offered up a pinstriped Gibson Les Paul guitar and a framed piece of artwork of Jeter made out of LEGO bricks.

As of Wednesday, the Jays said they were finalizing their gift.

Today's Jays talk of Jeter with respect and admiration, both for his play on the field and the way he conducts himself off it.

"A true ambassador of the game," said right-fielder Jose Bautista, the leader in the Jays' clubhouse. "He exemplifies what a baseball player is supposed to be like."

By the numbers

Jeter has hit .286 in 213 career at-bats against current Jays pitchers with six homers and 21 RBIs. Compare that to .357 against the current crop of Texas throwers, .327 against Seattle, or .316 against Boston.

U.S. Open

Raonic aces 26, on to third round

Canadian tennis star Milos Raonic advanced to the third round at the U.S. Open with a 7-6 (4), 5-7, 6-4, 7-6 (3) win over Germany's Peter Gojowczyk on Thursday.

The fifth seed from Thornhill, Ont., had 28 aces en route to victory over Gojowczyk, who's ranked No. 124 in the world.

Earlier, Wimbledon doubles champions Vasek Pospisil of Vancouver and Jack Sock of the United States both overcame injury to reach the second round with a 6-4, 6-4 defeat of Jarkko Nieminen and Henri Kontinen. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cory Joseph takes 'Larry' for a city tour

Cory Joseph carries the ball against Oklahoma City during game four of the Western Conference Finals in May in San Antonio. CHRIS COVATTA/GETTY IMAGES FILE

There he sits on a park bench, his "We came, we saw, we Concord" T-shirt a perfect homage to his roots, a man at peace just sitting idly with his thoughts, passing time with his buddy, Larry.

The Stanley Cup and the Grey Cup may have more lore behind them, more stories and history and histrionics, but times are young and Matt Bonner and the rest of the San Antonio Spurs are easing the Larry O'Brien Trophy into the summer tour life.

Bonner, like every Spur, had the trophy for a three-day period to do with it as he pleased.

"We took it everywhere," Bonner said during an appearance in Toronto earlier this month. "We'd just stop and go to places with it. You should have seen the people react."

And it's had a rather hectic time in Canada.

Cory Joseph showed it off at his alma mater, Pickering High School, and at Sick Kids Hospital. Friday, "Larry" will get the full tourism treatment, with stops at the CN Tower at 10:30 a.m. and the Hockey Hall of Fame at noon before Joseph uses it as a prop while throwing out the first pitch at the Blue Jays-Yankees game. Maple Leafs. Nylander working his way to NHL

There's a responsibility borne by every NHL rookie: At the end of every practice, rookies collect the pucks.

William Nylander was doing just that on Thursday as a gathering of Leafs, Marlies and players from other teams wrapped up a summer workout at the MasterCard Centre.

William Nylander
GETTY IMAGES

It's tempting to imagine the skilled Nylander doing that this year as a Leaf.

The 18-year-old, fresh off signing his entry-level contract, arrived in Toronto on Tuesday and started working with some future teammates — Phil Kessel, Nazem Kadri, David Clarkson — almost right away.

"You've got to go every day to get to where you want to be," said Nylander. "I expect to be the best I can be.

"My goal is to try to play in the NHL. To do that, I have to work hard every day at everything."

Outside of saying hello and exchanging pleasantries, Nylander hasn't had much interaction with the team's established stars. Although in a nod to his status, his equipment is in the Leafs' locker-room at the MCC, while the likes of Frederik Gauthier and Josh Leivo use the Marlies room.

Nylander, the Leafs top pick from the June draft, will be in action next month in London at the team's four-day rookie tournament.

Whale of a tale lives on

Hartford Whalers.
Carolina Hurricanes' predecessors have a lasting legacy in NHL

They played in a rink at a shopping mall, celebrated goals with music that sounded like a 1970s television theme song and have been gone from pro hockey for 17 years. Yet the iconic blue and green of the Hartford Whalers is as popular and visible as ever.

"I think the people that grew up with the Whalers will never, ever forget them, and they'll always have an attachment to them," former general manager Jim Rutherford said.

With the recent retirement of goaltender Jean-Sebastien Giguere, there are no more former Whalers playing in the NHL (Chris Pronger is still on an active roster despite career-ending injuries, and Craig Adams of the Pittsburgh Penguins was one of Hartford's final draft picks but never suited up for them).

"I would've never thought that, yeah, he was the last Whaler in the league," said Sean Burke, who played five seasons in Hartford, including part of one with Giguere. "It's another end to the Hartford Whalers story in another way, but in some ways it just keeps the story alive."

Most of the Whalers' story now is nostalgia: fans, many of whom weren't alive for the team's only Norris Division title in 1987 and never saw a game at Hartford Civic Center proudly sporting the "HW" logo with the water spout or listening to Brass Bonanza.

In 1997, the Hartford Whalers relocated and became the Carolina Hurricanes. To this day, Whalers logos are prominent. GETTY IMAGES FILE

The Whalers maintain a loyal following that longtime broadcaster Chuck Kaiton attributes to the creative logo, players like Ron Francis and even Gordie Howe at the end of his career and the team's role as the "ultimate underdog."

"They were always like that little engine that couldn't, that people thought couldn't compete with the big boys," said Kaiton, who has never missed a game in the 35-year history of the Whalers and Carolina Hurricanes. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Horoscopes by Sally Brompton

♈ Aries
March 21 - April 20
You will get riled up about something today. There is nothing you hate more than injustice and you will go out of your way to expose it.

♉ Taurus
April 21 - May 21
If you expect great things of yourself then you will accomplish great things. But make sure it is your own expectations you are trying to live up to — not other people's.

♊ Gemini
May 22 - June 21
If you sit quietly and let your inner voice speak today you will get the answers you have been looking for. Never doubt there is meaning to your existence.

♋ Cancer
June 22 - July 23
Some people just rub you the wrong way and you will have to deal with at least one such person today. The important thing is to realize you cannot change them — no more than they can change you.

♌ Leo
July 24 - Aug. 23
Life will confront you with a series of challenges that would have people running for cover. Amazingly, you'll actually rather enjoy being put to the test.

♍ Virgo
Aug. 24 - Sept. 23
Those who don't share your way of looking at the world will go out of their way to intimidate you. Insist on having your say. Don't back down.

♎ Libra
Sept. 24 - Oct. 23
Don't expect much of others today because they will be inclined to say one thing while doing something different. There is nothing much you can do about others' actions.

♏ Scorpio
Oct. 24 - Nov. 22
Like it or not you'll have to adapt to what others do. Fortunately, with Mercury moving in your favour there won't be as many misunderstandings as there have been recently.

♐ Sagittarius
Nov. 23 - Dec. 21
Make sure that what you are working on is for your benefit, rather than the benefit of people who know they can look good by being on your side.

♑ Capricorn
Dec. 22 - Jan. 20
The Sun in Virgo will make it easy to excel creatively and romantically. Be on the lookout for new opportunities. A smile could set you on a new journey.

♒ Aquarius
Jan. 21 - Feb. 19
If you try to shift the blame for something you did wrong the results could be embarrassing. Everyone makes mistakes so accept that you are at fault.

♓ Pisces
Feb. 20 - March 20
Others may say you're not being serious enough about what's going on in the world but you're not obligated to feel guilty about the things that you didn't cause.
